THE SENATE OF CANADA

ACTIVITY BOOK

A cartoon illustration of a woman with long brown hair, wearing a grey tuxedo jacket, a white shirt, a black bow tie, and a gold lapel pin. She is standing with one hand on her hip and the other gesturing towards a speech bubble. The background is a stylized, light blue and purple illustration of a Senate chamber with rows of desks and chairs.

Hi!

My name is Kaya.
It's nice to meet you!

I just moved to Ottawa for my first year of university and now
I am a Senate page!

I'll tell you more about what pages do in the Senate soon, but first you might want to know...

just what exactly is the Senate?

I didn't know much about what senators did when I first came here. But I learned the Senate is an interesting place. Come with me and I'll show you!

THE SENATE OF CANADA ACTIVITY BOOK

Over the next few pages, you'll find lots of activities that will help you learn about the Senate and its role in Parliament.

Here and there you might come across a word that you've never seen before. That's because people on Parliament Hill use lots of special words for the work they do. But don't worry! If you see a WORD IN BOLD, turn to pages 23 and 24 to find a short definition.

HAVE FUN AND GOOD LUCK WITH THE GAMES!

WHAT IS THE SENATE?

The SENATE is part of PARLIAMENT, which makes laws for Canada.

There are 105 senators who come from all over the country to meet in the Senate Chamber. They become senators when they are appointed by the GOVERNOR GENERAL on the advice of the PRIME MINISTER (so the prime minister gets to decide who will become a senator). Senators must be at least 30 years old to be appointed to the Senate, and they can work there until they are 75 years old.

The HOUSE OF COMMONS is also part of Parliament. It has 338 elected members called members of Parliament or MPs. Most laws get started in the House of Commons, but senators can also propose laws.

Together, the Senate and the House of Commons form what we call the legislative power in Canada.

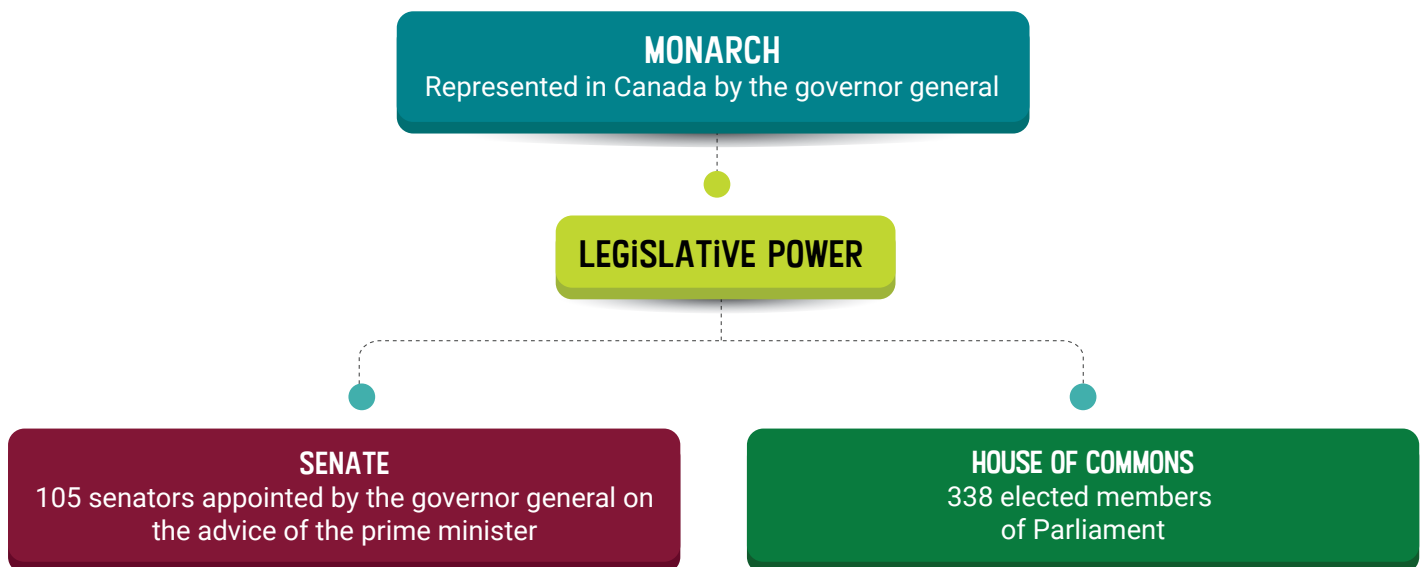

The Senate Chamber is also known as the Red Chamber, and it is home to 105 senators.

The House of Commons is home to 338 members of Parliament (MPs).

CANADA'S PARLIAMENTARY SYSTEM

WHY DO WE NEED THE HOUSE OF COMMONS AND THE SENATE?

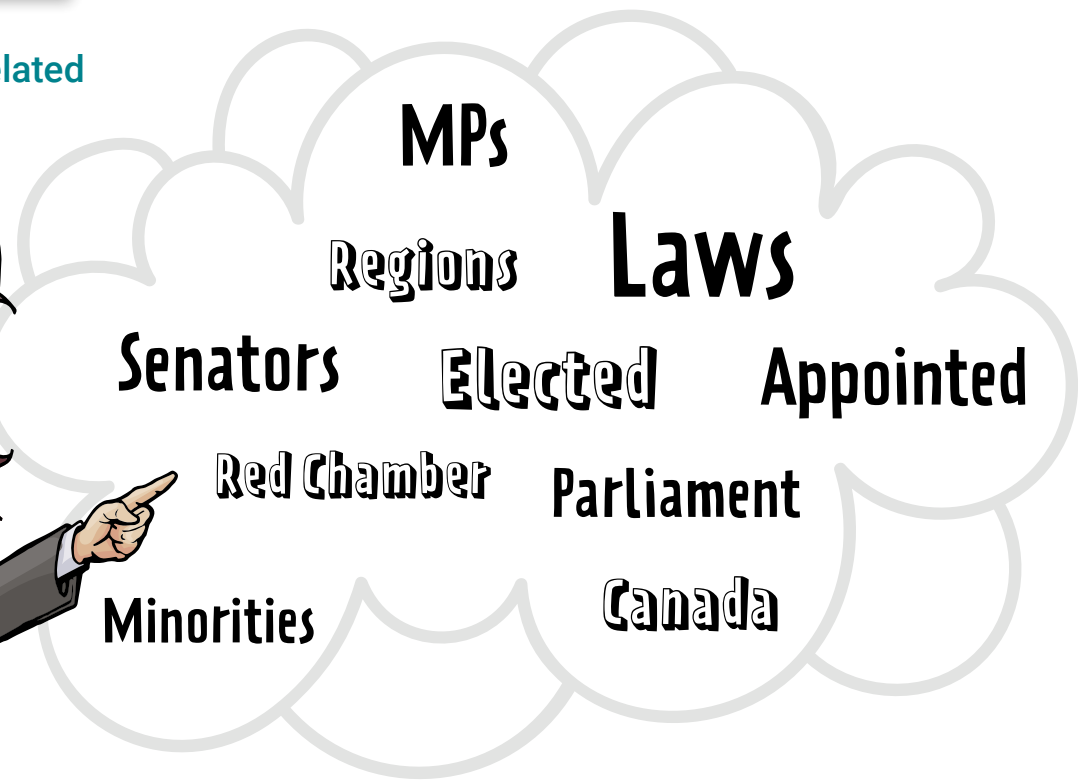

Think about a big province like Ontario and a small province like Nova Scotia. Because a lot of people live in Ontario, it has more seats in the HOUSE OF COMMONS than Nova Scotia does. So, things that Nova Scotians want could get ignored. When Canada was created in 1867, the SENATE was established to make sure regions with fewer people still had a strong voice in PARLIAMENT.

Nowadays, senators also stand up for groups that don't always have a big presence in the House of Commons, like Indigenous peoples, visible minorities and women.

THE SPEAKER OF THE SENATE

The Speaker is one of Canada's 105 senators. The Speaker's role is to keep order during DEBATES in the SENATE Chamber. He or she also makes sure that the Senate's rules are being followed.

The Speaker is a diplomatic figure who often greets leaders from other countries when they visit Ottawa. He or she also visits other countries on behalf of PARLIAMENT.

The Speaker is appointed to the role by the GOVERNOR GENERAL on the advice of the PRIME MINISTER.

THE SPEAKER WEARS A SPECIAL UNIFORM AS PART OF A TRADITION THAT DATES BACK HUNDREDS OF YEARS.

WHITE SHIRT

Two white bands called tabs are tied around the winged collar of the Speaker's white shirt.

TAILCOAT

Underneath the robe is a black coat with large cuffs and seven buttons. It is worn over a black vest and pants trimmed with a narrow silk band.

ROBE

The Speaker wears a black silk robe with a flat hood and 'wings' that hang from the open elbow sleeves.

TRICORN HAT

The Speaker can choose to wear a tricorn hat, a style popular among European men in the 18th century.

COTTON GLOVES

For ceremonial occasions, like the SPEAKER'S PARADE, the Speaker wears white cotton gloves.

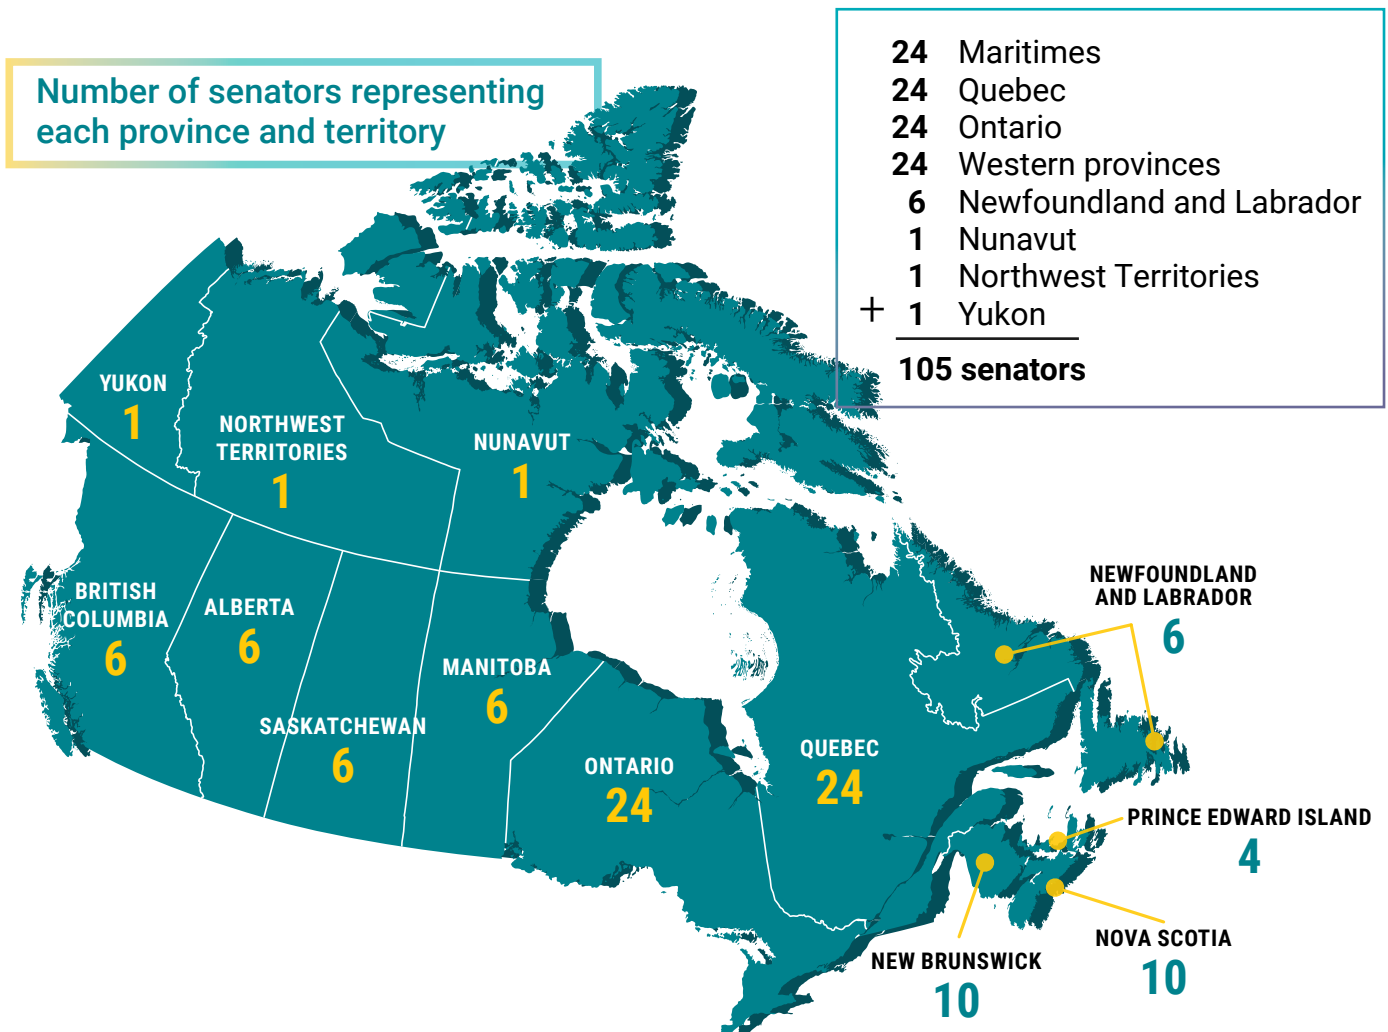

WHAT DO SENATORS DO?

SENATORS REPRESENT

Canada's 105 senators represent their province or territory. They also give a strong voice in PARLIAMENT to underrepresented groups like Indigenous peoples, women, and linguistic and visible minorities.

You don't have to be a politician to be a senator. Some senators are scientists, judges, teachers and athletes. Others are police officers, businesspeople and women's rights supporters.

Together, this diverse group of people guides Parliament so that it acts in the best interest of the Canadians they represent. That includes you!

What is the word for one underrepresented group of people that senators represent?

CLUES: This group is composed of many smaller groups with their own cultures, languages and traditions. Inuit, Métis and First Nations peoples are part of this group.

- The first syllable is the opposite of “out.”
- The second syllable sounds like the fourth letter of the alphabet.
- The third syllable sounds like a part of your face where a beard might grow.
- The fourth syllable sounds like a two-letter pronoun that rhymes with “bus.”

SENATORS INVESTIGATE

Senators often work in small groups called COMMITTEES. That's where they review BILLS (proposed laws) in detail to make sure there are no mistakes and to suggest improvements. They also study topics that are important to Canadians.

Committees regularly invite WITNESSES to Ottawa so senators can hear from experts or people who might be affected by a bill. But sometimes that's not enough, so committees will go on fact-finding missions to meet Canadians where they live. Committees then publish reports to tell everyone what they discovered.

Committees also make recommendations to the government in these reports, which often lead to new policies and laws.

SENATORS LEGISLATE

Senators study BILLS passed by the HOUSE OF COMMONS to make sure they're in the best interest of Canadians. Senators can also propose bills.

As part of this work, senators DEBATE whether bills should be amended or passed without changes.

Once a bill has been passed in identical form by the SENATE and the House of Commons, the bill receives ROYAL ASSENT from the GOVERNOR GENERAL and becomes a law.

HOW A SENATE BILL BECOMES A LAW

1. THE BILL IS INTRODUCED IN THE SENATE

- ✓ Senators debate the bill in the Senate Chamber.
- ✓ A Senate committee studies it and may suggest AMENDMENTS (changes).
- ✓ Senators have a final chance to debate the bill in the Senate Chamber and suggest changes.

If it gets a majority of votes, the bill is sent to the House of Commons.

2. THE BILL ARRIVES IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS

- ✓ Members of Parliament (MPs) study and debate the bill in the House of Commons and in committee.
- ✓ If MPs change the bill, those changes have to be accepted by the Senate.

If it gets a majority of votes, the bill is sent to the governor general for Royal Assent.

3. THE BILL GETS ROYAL ASSENT

- ✓ Once the Senate and the House of Commons agree on what should be in the bill, it must receive ROYAL ASSENT.
- ✓ The MONARCH or the governor general grants Royal Assent, often in writing.

At least twice a year, the governor general must grant Royal Assent during a special ceremony in the Senate Chamber.

THE BILL IS NOW A LAW!

THE SENATE HAS MOVED

Senators work in Ottawa, Canada's capital. Usually they work in a building called Centre Block on Parliament Hill.

1912 HISTORIC TRAIN STATION

In February 2019, the SENATE moved into a 100-year-old building that used to be Ottawa's train station. That's because Centre Block is being renovated.

The train station is now called the Senate of Canada Building, and senators will work there until construction is done in Centre Block.

SENATE PAGES

Each year, 15 university students from across Canada are selected to become Senate pages. They help make the SENATE and its COMMITTEES run smoothly, for example, by making sure senators have copies of documents they need to do their work.

Pages witness history in the making as BILLS are debated, amended and become law. Their work is done quietly and in the background – but it is essential to the work of the Senate.

TRUE OR FALSE?

Can you guess what is true and what is false?

GLOSSARY

Here are some of the terms you've seen in this activity book and their definition.

AMENDMENT

Change to a bill suggested by a senator or a member of the House of Commons.

BILL

Proposed law. Bills often come to the Senate for approval from the House of Commons but senators can introduce bills too. Bills cannot become law unless the Senate and the House of Commons approve them in identical form. Once a bill has been approved, the final step is for the monarch or governor general to grant Royal Assent by signing it into law.

COMMITTEE

Group of senators that meets to discuss bills and investigate important topics. Committees often invite expert witnesses to shed light on these issues; senators also go on fact-finding missions across the country to get new information firsthand. They use this information to create reports and make recommendations to the government.

DEBATE

Senators' discussions in the Senate Chamber. Senators represent people from across the country and bring a variety of experiences to the Senate. While senators may not always agree with each other, they use research and evidence to support their views and they are respectful of each other's opinions.

GOVERNOR GENERAL

Monarch's representative in Canada. Her Excellency the Right Honourable Mary Simon became Canada's 30th governor general on July 26, 2021.

HOUSE OF COMMONS

Parliament's elected house. The House of Commons is made up of 338 members of Parliament (MPs for short), including the prime minister. MPs draft legislation, debate issues and represent Canadians who live in their riding.

MONARCH

Queen or King of Canada.

PARLIAMENT

Institution that consists of the Monarch, the Senate and the House of Commons. Parliament passes laws that affect Canadians.

PRIME MINISTER

Head of the government of Canada who is the leader of the governing political party. The prime minister sits in the House of Commons as a member of Parliament.

ROYAL ASSENT

Ceremony that turns a bill into a law. Royal Assent is given by the monarch or the governor general. It takes place only after the bill has been passed in the same form by the Senate and the House of Commons.

SENATE

Body of 105 senators that reviews and proposes bills. It's part of Parliament, along with the monarch and the House of Commons. It's also called the Red Chamber.

SPEAKER'S PARADE

Parade that marks the opening of a Senate sitting. The parade includes officials who escort the Speaker into the Senate Chamber.

WITNESSES

People who appear before committees to speak about a proposed law (a bill) or an important issue. Senators may recommend changing a bill because of what a witness says. Anybody with knowledge to share on a specific topic may be invited to be a witness – even young people!

TRUE OR FALSE

TRUE. Former senator Muriel McQueen Fergusson called attention to the lack of female pages. She became the first female Speaker of the Senate in 1972.

FALSE. It is the Senate Speaker who wears a tricorne hat. Pages do, however, wear white gloves and a bow tie.

TRUE. The recording was made after the original bells broke. Luckily, a parliamentary employee had kept a bell as a souvenir and the sound was recorded in a studio.

TRUE. Pages had to be small for several reasons. First, senators had difficulty hearing each other because there was no sound system in the Senate Chamber back then. Tall pages would have stopped the sound from carrying and blocked senators' view during debates. Most importantly, the uniforms came in only one size – so pages had to be small enough for the uniform to fit.

FALSE. Pages can come from any province or territory in the country. If you're a full-time student and in your first undergraduate degree program, you could be a page. You must also be able to speak English and French, Canada's two official languages.
